gloss and freshness of youth. Thin, hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and proyents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing elso can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambrie, and yet lasts

A letter written from Genessee to the Syracuse Standard, under the date of Sept. 24, relates the following: "Yesterday, on the train on the Eric railway which runs from Rochester to Dansville and reaches here at 10 a. m., a most ingular circumstance occurred. When Mary P. Rhoades, of Adrian, Mich., and a relative of Rev. C. T. Seibt, of Olean, N. Y. She was leaning over a seat uttering the most piercing cries. A gentleman rushed to her and asked the trouble. She made no answer but continued to scream the louder. When the train reached this village she was helped into the waiting room, and a entleman present procured a glass of brandy which being given to the lady, she appeared to recover some. A lady standing near at this juncture gave a scream, and, pointing to the head of Miss Rhoades, fainted. On examination a large striped snake was observed coiled around the chignon of the lady. How it came there was a mystery, and only explained by the theory that it had got into the car and took refuge under the cushions of the car seat. Miss Rhoades stated she felt something crawling up her head, but could only give vent to her feelings in screams, and until it was taken off did not herself know what the matter was. The snake was killed, and the affair produced no little excitement for the time.
